The screenshot shows the ccNSO website with the title "Country Code Names Supporting Organisation". The navigation bar includes links for Home, About, Operations, Resources, Meetings, Library, Contact, and Quick Links. On the left sidebar, there is a "Translate this page" button and a "Select Language" dropdown menu. The main content area is titled "Update on the ccNSO schedule for ICANN67". The announcement, dated 27 February 2020, states that due to the ICANN67 announcement, the ccNSO Council and Working Groups have discussed the impact and decided to reduce the meeting schedule to a strict minimum. A list of highlights follows, with one item circled in red: "Tech Day and the ccNSO Members Meeting have been cancelled". The announcement concludes by stating that a limited number of ICANN67 sessions will continue via remote participation only, and provides links for more information.

Update on the ccNSO schedule for ICANN67

Date: 27 February 2020

In light of the announcement that ICANN67 – which was to be held in Cancún – will now be held via remote participation-only, the ccNSO Council and the Chairs of Working Groups and Committees, together with some community members, discussed the impact and way forward for the ccNSO schedule.

As a result of ICANN's announcement and the subsequent discussions, it was decided to reduce the ccNSO meeting schedule for ICANN67 to a strict minimum. A few highlights:

- The ccNSO Council, Working Groups and Committees will continue their work according to their regular year-round schedule, but will not meet as part of ICANN67.
- Tech Day and the ccNSO Members Meeting have been cancelled and sessions or presentations will be deferred - to the extent possible – to the ICANN68 public meeting.
- The ccNSO typically meets with the ICANN Board and other supporting organisations and advisory committees at ICANN Public Meetings: the joint meetings between the ccNSO and ALAC, GAC, the GNSO Council and the ICANN Board – originally to be held in Cancún - have been cancelled.

A limited number of ICANN67 sessions will continue to be held, but via remote participation only. A modified remote participation schedule for ICANN67 will become available here. Those interested in attending the remote meeting should still register here, if they have not done so previously. To learn more about remote participation, visit ICANN Public Meetings.
